CORAM; A.P. DESHPANDE, J.
DATED; 15TH OCTOBER, 2007

P.C.;

1. The learned counsel for the petitioner has pointed out that when the writ petition was filed, the impugned order was already challenged by filing a revision before the State Government. As the State Government was not passing orders on the said application, the present writ petition was filed. The learned counsel for the petitioner then submits that now the Minister has concluded the hearing of the revision and the matter is closed for orders. In this view of the matter, a prayer for withdrawal of the writ petition is made. Prayer is granted. In the result, the writ petition is dismissed as withdrawn.
